THE COMING "HYPER-INFLATION" 2014

Synopsis

This is the continuation of our storyâ€”how a middle-class AMERICAN couple, living in Hawaii, moved their savings, and investments to New Zealand and Australia, in 2009 (in anticipation of probable US dollar devaluation). In 2012, after much research, we wrote: THE COMING BANKING HOLIDAY. Gerald Celente re-coined the phrase â€œbank holidayâ€•, and it occurs when a bank closes its doors, then reopens a few days later. Depositors then find that their accounts have been devalued to the tune of 25-50%. This, their second book examines another of their fears, hyperinflation. They heard John Williams of ShadowStats in early 2013, and decided to write a book using much of his, and other experts predictions. John Williams predicts that Hyperinflation will actually take place sometime late 2014. The Millers after examining and presenting the facts, present their conclusions, and offer solutions. It's quite an easy read, and could be consider a "how to" book. You'll find links to many of the recent John William's and Jim Sinclair's audio interviews. This is provided for those that do not wish to read the transcripts. Their next book, out in January, deals with Americans "Getting Out Of Dodge!".
